BI series tanks (700x700)

It is reported that the side mounting kits for the BI family tanks (70x70) have been modified to obtain a better tank/support coupling, standardize the support geometry to other latest generation ones and above all adopt the new universal drilling for fixing to the frame.

	The new drilling has allowed us to integrate the punctures of the new frames recently introduced on the market into a single solution, without handling specific supports or drill new holes on the chassis frame.

The old codes are placed at the end of the series until the complete exhaustion of the warehouse stocks which will occur as early as the next few weeks.
